Could copper be holding your crops back?

Given what's invested in growing crops these days, growers can ill-afford to risk reduced yields due to trace element deficiencies. Craig Farlow, Technical Agronomist at Incitec Pivot Fertilisers, has published an article on the importance of copper, identifying copper deficiency and how to supply copper to your crop.

Ask for a copy of the article next time you are discussing your fertiliser requirements at your local North West Ag store.
